

Frequently asked questions

Below are the most common requests for information we receive, the answers to all your questions won't be found here, if you need help with a specific question please don't hesitate to call us or use the contact form on our website.

1, When should I book my wedding entertainment?

If you want a Dj for your wedding you can book him/her well in advance 12-18 months or more isn't uncommon for a good Dj to be booked for a wedding.

A band on the other hand isn't as straight forward, don't be tempted to rush out and book something straight away especially if your wedding is a long way off. Bands who are great now may not be so great in two years time especially if their line up has changed.

If your wedding is on a Friday or Saturday then popular bands can be booked 12-18 months in advance , mid week weddings can be left sooner than this. April- September inclusive is a peak in wedding entertainment, take this into account when looking for entertainment.

2, Will I have to pay a deposit when I book my entertainment, if so how much?

Yes a deposit is required when booking this will be 10% of the total cost. You will receive written confirmation and a receipt when you make a booking.

3, How can I pay for my entertainment?

Deposit is by credit/ Debit card or cheque, balance can either be paid in cash on the evening or by cheque 7-10 days before your function, credit and debit cards can now be used as methods of payment.

Credit cards must be used by named cardholder only, no 3rd party transactions are permitted.

4, How much can I expect to pay for my wedding entertainment?

This all depends on what you decide to book, A wedding disco will cost Fr £275.00. Good live bands 4 piece or more Start from around £700.00. Soloists around £175.00.

5, Can I get to hear your bands or Dj's live?

We will do our best to enable you to hear any of our acts. Bear in mind that most functions are "closed" not generally open to the public, usually private clubs or other peoples weddings.

Most brides and grooms are very understanding as they have been through the process themselves however the final decision will be theirs and we will always ask for their permission.
